Continued Examination Under 37 CFR 1.114

1. A request for continued examination under 37 CFR 1.114, including the fee set forth in 37 CFR 1.17(e), was filed in this application after final rejection. Since this application is eligible for continued examination under 37 CFR 1.114, and the fee set forth in 37 CFR 1.17(e) has been timely paid, the finality of the previous Office action has been withdrawn pursuant to 37 CFR 1.114. Applicant's submission filed on 9/28/09 has been entered.

Response to Remarks

2. The applicant amended the claims to overcome the 112 rejection set forth in the previous office action.

Claim Objections

3. Claims 2-6 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

4. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

5. Claims 1,7,8 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Ura (EP 1 278 396) in view of Nakama et al. (JP 05-188977) .

Art Unit: 2614

6. Regarding claim 1, Aoki discloses a howling detector, comprising:
a frequency analyzing section for dividing a time signal into a plurality of frequency band signals (103, Figure 1; abstract);
a level calculating section for calculating a level of each of the plurality of frequency band signals output from the frequency analyzing section over a time period defining a time progression (105, Figure 1; see abstract);
a howling detecting section for analyzing the level calculated by the level calculating section and outputting a howling detection signal indicating deciding whether howling is detected or not ( 105, Figure 1; abstract);
a howling deciding section for receiving the howling detection signal, deciding whether howling occurs or not based on decision results of the howling detecting section ( 104, Figure 1; see abstract);

Ura fails to teach on a periodic signal detection section, and outputting a periodic detection signal indicating whether or not the time progression of the level calculated by the level calculating section have periodicity and the howling deciding section receiving the periodic detection section and deciding if howling occurs based on the periodic signal detection section and the howling detection section.

Art Unit: 2614

Nakama teaches of a periodic detection section, outputting a periodic detection signal which indicates if the time progression of the level has periodicity and determining howling or noise based on the periodic detection signal. ( abstract; Figure 1).

It would have been obvious to modify Ura as modified by incorporating a periodic detection section for the benefit of better controlling noise.

Claims 7 and 8 are comprehended by Ura and Nakama as applied above to claim 1.
